VOL. IV.

MT. STERLING, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1893.

NO. 17

The residence of James Ware, near Sharpsburg, burned last Wednesday. Loss $4,000.

The new Democratic paper to be started December 1st by S. S. Cassidy and Henry Watson has been christened "The Montgomery County Times." May its sale be ever to favorable winds.

The municipal government of the city of Frankfort will not be Republican. Judge Ira Julian has been elected as Mayor and he will see that things go the right way.

Mrs. Josiah Lindsay, of this city, and Mrs. James B. Campbell, of Sharpsburg, are erecting a handsome monument in Madiachin cemetery to the memory of their father, Benjamin Botts.

The National Plate Glass Association has gone to pieces. The Plate Glass Association met in Pittsburgh Thursday, and held their last meeting. The association was formed for one year, and the time for which it was formed having expired, owing to the financial situation of the country and the light demand for plate glass, and foreign competition, the manufacturers decided not to continue the association longer. The association had a capital of $10,000,000.

Calls a Halt on McKinley.

The friends of ex-President Harrison in Indian, frightened at the proportions of the McKinley boom, are already organizing for the purpose of securing his renomination. Lodges and secret clubs are being formed all over the State with the object solely in view.—Courier-Journal

W. W. George, of Winchester, and Miss Nancy Welch, of this county, were married at the Catholic church last Thursday.

The ladies of the C. W. B. M. and the Baptist Missionary Society have secured ex-Governor Bob Taylor for a lecture Friday night, December 1st. The simple announcement is sure to draw a crowded house.

The reported murder of Emin Pasha in the Congo Free State, in 1892, has been confirmed. All his papers were last week turned over to King Leopold, of Belgium, under whose patronage the expedition had been fitted out.

Trees and shrubs of all kinds, with rare exceptions should be planted in the fall. They get settled and rooted, in many cases, before winter sets in. Besides this there is enough a rush of work in spring that it is hard work to get it properly attended to then, as it should be.

At Morrison, Ill., Charles Andrews, proprietor of the Andrews Opera Company, traveling in their own private parlor car, met a horrible death Friday. Andrews stepped from one railroad track to another to avoid a west-bound freight train, when the east-bound Omaha express struck him, throwing him under the freight train, where his body was ground to pieces.

Mr. Hiram L. Jackson, of Fleming county, and Miss Lizzie E. Holliday, of this county, were married at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John Holliday, on Wednesday. Ed. B. W. Trimble performed the ceremony. Mr. Jackson formerly lived in this city and is well known here. The couple left for their future home in Fleming on Wednesday afternoon.

In a foot ball game played between the teams of the Centre College and Centre University at Lexington, on Saturday, the C. U. boys won the Inter-Collegiate League Championship by a score of 30 to 18. The fact that the Centre College team had rung in a couple of semi-professionals, and in face of the protest of the C. U. boys, persisted in playing them, won for the Centre University the sympathy of the crowd. Rice Crooks, son of Mr. Robert Crooks, took an active part in the game for Centre University.

Serious damage to shipping was done Thursday night and Friday by a heavy gale which swept the western and southern coasts of Great Britain. Several vessels were wrecked and many casualties were reported.

"Did you see Mr. H. R. Bright, our handsome and efficient Circuit Clerk, last Saturday? Did you see him? He was going to Frankfort, so he said. A handsome man dressed to kill. Corn shucks are heavy and a hard winter is looked for.

The Lexington police made a raid on a negro dance among the rough element of Smithtown, a Lexington suburb, and the negroes opened fire on the officers. During the firing an innocent by-stander, Ed Curtois, a nineteen year old white boy, was shot by the negroes.

Stockholders of the Oregon Gold Mining Company, of Louisville, brought suit Friday to have a receiver appointed. They charge that the company's affairs have been mismanaged, and that the old officers will not surrender the books, though their successors have been elected.

The Why of it.

It now appears that the movement to annex Cincinnati suburbs may have some politics in it. The annexed population would add about 2,000 to the Republican majority of the city.

President J. W. Bean sold Tuesday, to Vic Bloomfield, ten shares of Clark County National Bank stock at $175 per share.—Winchester Sun.

Secretary Gresham is reported to have informed Senator Morgan that there was no intention to use force in restoring the Queen in Hawaii.

Grace Episcopal church at Memphis was destroyed by fire Thursday morning. S. J. Gilbert, the organist of the church, has been arrested on the charge of arson.

That noon, Walter Banks, can not qualify for City Conclinnian from the Third ward. He was not a qualified voter; he did not register, and Mr. Sterling citizens can rest satisfied that they will not have a negro to guard her interests, etc., and to associate in Council with white men.

At Belleville, Illinois, ex-Police officer, Gustavus Menkhauzen has been lodged in St. Clair county jail, charged with the murder of his wife. Last Thursday, it is alleged, Menkhauzen gave his wife a glass of beer containing strychnine, from the effects of which she died. Menkhauzen declares that he is innocent.

Cincinnati is about to annex seventy-five square miles of unincorporated territory, and Winchester is preparing to spread herself to the extent of a quarter of a mile all round. This will increase Cincinnati's population about 32,000, and Winchester's something less than 2,000, besides adding very considerable tax values to both.—Winchester Sun.

Joe Chambers, of Menefee county, sowed a turnip patch August 1, 1893, and without rains raised a magnificent crop, and from it sent one to this office which measures 24 inches in circumference. With the turnip is the following note: "I send you a turnip that measures 24 inches around it. It was raised under the Democratic administration without rains and was sowed August 1, 1893."—J. J. Chambers.

At Morrison, Ill., Earnest Swarthout was found guilty of murdering his father and the punishment fixed at 14 years in the penitentiary. Albert Swarthout was a well-to-do farmer, a widower, who contemplated marrying again. His sons, Earnest and John, opposed the match. One day the remains of the father were found cut to pieces in the ashes of a haystack on his farm, and a bullet hole in his head. John, who was very sickly, made a dying confession later, in which he declared he alone did the killing. This jury did not credit the confession, believing he made it to shield his brother.

Advertisements in the ADVOCATE if you desire to reach the people.

Some advertisements, like some horses, are dear at any price. Put your advertisement where it will reach the people, viz: in the ADVOCATE.

Meridian, Miss., is in throes of a sensation caused by the exposure of what is claimed to be an attempt of the Thompson-Houston Electric Light and Power Company to bribe members of the City Council.

All the United States troops in the Department of Colorado have been ordered into active service on the Southwestern border to prevent depredations on this side of the line by the marauding "revolutionists," who are again causing trouble in Northern Mexico.

The weekly reviews of trade of the Diet and Bradstreet agencies show that in the general commercial and financial situation throughout the country there is much to encourage. Business is gaining, but improvement is slow. November payments were far more satisfactory than had been expected. The exports represent a large increase in the quantity of product sold, but at lower prices. The banks of New York hold a great surplus.

There Now!

Mr. Bourke Cockran urges his fellow-members of the Ways and Means Committee not to provide for an income tax. He denounced such a tax as vicious in principle and expressed the opinion that if passed by the Democratic Congress it would make New York city a Republican center for an indefinite term of years.

In a wreck on the East Alabama railroad at Lafayette, Ala., early Thursday morning, Thomas Driver was burned to death and ten others were injured, two of whom will die.

Rich gold finds are reported from the Oregon Tonsins, 50 miles north-west of El Paso, Texas. The stories coming in are so wonderful that within a few days a whole army of prospectors will leave for the Oregon district.

John A. Drake, Treasurer of the Indiana, Illinois & Iowa railway, was assaulted in his office in Chicago early Wednesday morning by two men and robbed of over $3,000 in cash. Drake is the son of the President of the road, Gen. Drake, who, with his lovely daughter, has frequently visited in our country. Mr. Drake was just starting out with the semi-monthly pay roll of the company when attacked.

Nim Cox, a negro coal cart driver in Lexington, has been fined $100 by Judge Jewell for cruelty to the mule he was driving. The negro became enraged at the animal because he failed to hold the loaded cart against the sidewalk and consequently cruelly beat him over the head. The passer-by, assisted by constables, were summoned and warrants were sworn out, the trial resulting as above stated.

Some action of this kind needs to be taken here. More than once has cruelty to dumb animals been perpetrated on the streets of Mt. Sterling.

A special from Harrodsburg Friday says: "Last night on Smoky Row, a crowd of negroes were playing craps, Abe Bridges, one of the players, snatched up the stakes and pocketed them. Dr. Northrup, from Arkansas, demanded that Bridges give back the money, which was refused. Bridges then drew a pistol, when the doctor, without removing his hand from his pocket, shot him just under the heart, inflicting a fatal wound. When Bridges fled a general fight ensued, in which John Harris was terribly carved with a bowie-knife. Bridges had been a terror to both white and colored citizens and no one regrets his murder.

The strongest reform paper in the country is edited by three convicts—a thief, a forger and a burglar. It is published in the Kansas penitentiary.

Quality may govern the worth of any article. This is true of advertising. The medium to reach the people of this county is through the columns of the ADVOCATE.

One of the big iron furnaces at Ashland, Ky., has been fired up after an idleness of several months and three hundred men have been put back to work. Another furnace will be fired about December 1. Let the good work go on.

A few days ago it was reported that Mr. May, the chief cashier of the Bank of England, had resigned with a liberal pension allowed him. Now comes the statement that he was summarily discharged by the directors after his twenty years of service. It is alleged that through bad management the bank has sustained losses amounting to several hundred thousand pounds.

Thank You Bert.

The easiest way to touch the heart of an editor, these hard times, is through his stomach. We thank you for those choice and delicious spare-ribs. Spare-ribs broiled are fit for the king's table, and the Potentates are no better than the editors. No one realizes this fact more than our friend Mr. Bert Wyatt. Thank you!

Advertising is a cold, hard matter of business—you want the greatest return for your money. The paper to give it to you is the ADVOCATE.

Republicans of the Third ward elected a negro for one of their Councilmen. They did not pick the right man. The Coon had forgotten to register.

The appraiser of Edwin Booth's estate, Dr. Van Shalck, has filed his report, which gives the gross value of the estate at $402,575. After deducting for debts, legacies, funeral expenses, etc., the balance is $462,335.

Fire at Owensboro, Ky., Thursday night destroyed the C. O. & S. W. freight depot, sixteen cars of coal and merchandise, two tobacco warehouses, two residences and a small grocery. The loss will probably reach $150,000.

John W. Taul, of this city, on the 15th inst., arrested Jesse Caskey in Clark county and delivered him to the Jail of Morgan county on the same day. The crime which Jesse Caskey is charged with is the murder of Sam Caskey, in Morgan county, last February.

Mr. J. L. Elliston and family left for Covington on Friday morning, which city they will make their future home. Mr. Elliston has formed a partnership for the practice of law with Mr. Green. We are glad to hear that his prospects for a successful business are bright.

A good lady remarked a day or two since: "The only objection I have to Bob Taylor delivering his lecture here on the 'Paradise of Fools,' is that should be chance to excite an exodus. Mt. Sterling would be nearly depopulated." Governor Bob will have a big crowd to hear him on Friday night, December 1st.

Frank Seacore, the forger, who acquired considerable notoriety by his extensive unlawful transactions in real estate escaped from the Lexington jail Wednesday. Seacore made his escape by sewing through the bars of a window and letting himself down by means of a pair of luggies. He left a note to the jailor, stating that he would return Dec. 5 to stand trial. Seacore fixed his pillow under the cover on his cot so as it would look as if he was still in bed. It is suspected that his wife and his brother, who paid him visits during the day, furnished him the means by which he escaped. Jailor Wilkerson has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and return of Seacore to the jail.

D. M. Kilpatrick has been appointed Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New Orleans.

Of Egyptian cotton 16,382,576 pounds were imported during the first three months of 1893, against 1,672,576 pounds in the same period of 1892.

All parties wanting turkeys for Thanksgiving, leave orders with R. M. & T. K. Barnes this week and you will not be disappointed.

At a regular business meeting at the Howard's Mill Baptist Church last Saturday, they called for their pastor, Rev. J. I. Willis, of Richmond, Ky.

Near Middleborough, at Mingo mines, three hundred coke ovens have been put in operation and 150 idle men have found employment. These ovens have been closed since last April.

Mose Barnett, a life convict, who escaped from the pen some four or five years ago, was arrested in Clay City Sunday night. In an effort to arrest him one of the arresting officers was wounded by Barnett.

Assistant United States Treasurer C. N. Jordan called for England Wednesday, it was given out, on private business. There is a report around Washington that he has gone to London to place United States bonds.

Card of Thanks.

The citizens of this city have been exceedingly kind to us in our deep distress, and I take this method of extending our profound gratitude. May God bless every one of you.

Mrs. S. M. MADDEN.

Bob Taylor, the inimitable, will lecture on the "Paradise of Fools," at the Opera House, on Friday, December 1st.

The Owen News which was entirely consumed by fire a few months ago, is getting on its feet again, and will appear shortly in an entirely new dress. So much for enterprise on the part of its editor, Mr. Orr.

The Viking ship arrived at Alton, Ill., Friday morning and the cheering of steamboat whistles and the booming of cannon. Several thousand people assembled on the river banks, and gave the vessel an enthusiastic welcome. The captain and crew were royally entertained by the Illinois Yacht Club. The Viking left for St. Louis Saturday.

In New York, Captain Doherty and Detective Mallon, of the Fifth Street Station, came to the police headquarters and reported to Superintendent Byrnes that a dynamite bomb had been found in the cellar of the house, No. 79 East Third Street. They have the bomb in their quarters. It is a piece of iron pipe about 11 inches long, with a copper wire running through it.

The financial world has received a shock the like of which it has not experienced in many centuries. This feeling is altogether removed from a failure, even such gigantic suspension as that of Baring Brothers, which a few years ago was a money center on the globe.

The chief cashier of that institution which has been for centuries the synonym for stability, the Bank of England, should have been shown up as converting the bank's fund to his own use is indeed a surprise. The shortage is all the way from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000. How have the mighty fallen, and what a lesson it teaches. This famous bank has stood before the world as Cassar's wife, and now comes the revelation.—Cincinnati Post.

Miss Nancy Trimble, the beautiful and popular daughter of our townsman, Mr. J. G. Trimble, was married at the home of her father in this city on Wednesday afternoon to Mr. Victor Holley, of Austin, Texas. The wedding was a quiet, home affair, only the immediate relatives of the bride being present. Dr. R. Hiner, of Carrollton, performed the ceremony. Mr. Holley is a business man of experience and extensive acquaintance in his home State. The newly married couple left on the 5 p. m. train for Austin via New Orleans. The hearty good wishes of a host of friends followed the bride to her distant home.

THE ADVOCATE.

As to Kentucky.

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette is troubled about Kentucky. The solidity of the Kentucky Democracy has always been an affront to the Commercial Gazette. Kentucky Democracy is a character so different from the noisier Ohio kind that its quality puzzles while its steadiness irritates the organs of the G. O. P. The firmness with which Kentucky stood her ground in the recent election and piled upon her usual Democratic majority while other States were indulging in "off year" drows, moves the Commercial Gazette to the somewhat ill-natured observation that a solid Democracy is about all Kentucky has to show in the way of greatness; that the State has been at a stand-still for half a century; that it has not had a well-defined, "progressive" political idea since the days of Henry Clay, and that those who dispute the supremacy of "Bourbon Democracy" are socially ostracized. The indictment is summed up in this:

"We do not say that Kentucky Democracy is objected to by its young men who emigrate to other States, but we do say that the condition which makes possible the solidity of the Democratic party in Kentucky is the cause of the absence of the evidence of prosperity in that State, a State which possesses so much in the line of wealth that is desirable, and increases its population from the outside rather than by natural growth within."

The Courier-Journal is too thoroughly and faithfully devoted to the interests of Kentucky to withhold candid criticism when criticism is needed, but to be valuable criticism must be intelligent, and that of the Commercial Gazette lacks this essential quality. Kentucky is in some things less progressive than many of its people would have it, but the assumption that Kentucky Democracy and an unprogressive spirit are one and the same thing, or that they spring from the same social conditions, is wide of the mark, and betrays an ignorance of the social and political conditions of the State.

Not Democracy, but Republicanism, represents the unprogressive element in Kentucky, so far as that element may be identified with other party more than with the other. As a matter of fact, politics has nothing to do with it, but if politics is to be considered as in any way associated with progressiveness, it is just as well to bear in mind that the most backward sections in Kentucky are those in which the Republicans have an overwhelming majority. With scarcely an exception, the counties in Kentucky which give steady and pronounced Republican majorities are poorer counties, drawing from the State Treasury for their own support more money than they pay in taxes. The heaviest charge upon the State for the support of pauper idiots and for the prosecution of criminals comes from the counties of big Republican majorities. The emigration from Kentucky to the West is almost wholly from counties dominated by Republicanism—from Clinton, Cumberland, Metcalfe and other counties along the southern border of the State. That vast section of Kentucky about the Cumberland, the Kentucky, the Licking and the Big Sandy rivers, embracing the greater part of the undeveloped mineral and timber wealth of the State, is overwhelmingly Republican. The counties which have staked the reputation of the State with their feuds have, with one exception, been ruled by Republicans.

These things are not cited as any reproach to our Republican citizens. But in any attempt to establish a connection between progressiveness and politics these facts are to be considered. There are also not to be overlooked in any effort to account for the steady Democratic majority in Kentucky, if, indeed, any explanation of that political condition be needed beyond the fact of an intelligent devotion of the people to Democratic principles. Without reflection upon the many worthy members of the Republican party, the people of Kentucky decline the rule of a party which in their own community they see chiefly composed of a mass of ignorant voters, and which, in Eastern Kentucky, stands for the most inflexible and intolerant Bourbonism. It is here as throughout the South. The necessities of clean local government give compactness and effectiveness to the Democratic party.

One other point is to be considered in accounting for the faithfulness of the Kentucky Democracy. Since the

GAVE HIS BLOOD TO A WOMAN.

AMOS LINCOLN, OF NEW YORK. WAS VERY GENEROUS.

Nearly Four Years Ago the Vital

Fluid Was Taken,

And To-day He Is Practically a

Wreck.

Amos Lincoln, of No. 130 West Nineteenth street, New York city, is in distress and out of work, chiefly because of physical weakness, caused by the loss of 32 ounces of blood, which he gave to save the life of a young woman in the New York hospital Jan. 9, 1890. The attending physicians and the house surgeon all testify to the fact. Miss Lizette Cunningham, a dressmaker, then living on eight avenue, was nearly killed by inhaling illuminating gas. She was taken to New York hospital and treated by skillful physicians, but the poison was in her system, and her low vitality and lack of physical strength needed to be reinforced. To save her life, the doctors resolved to try the transfusion of blood remedy—that is, to inject fresh human blood into the woman's veins, and thus expel the gas poison. Among the patients in the hospital that had plenty of blood was Amos Lincoln, troubled with a nervous affection, the result of electrical shocks while he was a fireman. He was on the road to recovery when the physicians wanted fresh blood. He volunteered to give his own life fluid, and 32 ounces were taken from his left arm. This warm blood was whipped or beaten into a froth and otherwise prepared for the operation, and was then injected into the poisoned girl. She soon recovered and became a strong woman.

Lincoln has lost so much vitality that he grew weaker and became subject to nervous attacks tending toward paralysis. To-day he is pale and very much shattered, and at first glance one fancies he has been drinking. But his record contradicts that idea. He can do light work and he needs a home and steady employment. He was born at Fort Brownsville, Texas, in 1851. For years he was employed by telegraph companies in New Orleans, and later was a lineman for electric lighting companies. He was shocked twice, but recovered, and would have been all right but for the loss of the 32 ounces of blood.—World

Above Everything Else

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood. By this means it reaches, builds up, and invigorates every part of the system. For every blood-taint and disorder, and for every disease that comes an inactive liver or impure blood, it is the only remedy as sure and effective that it can be guaranteed.

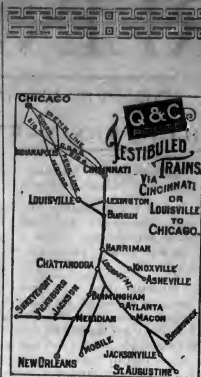

If it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

These diseases are many. They're in form, but they're like in treatment. Rouse up the torpid liver into healthful action, thoroughly purify and enrich the blood, and there's positive cure. The "Discovery" does this, as nothing else can. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, biliousness, all bronchitis, throat and lung affections; every form of scrofula, even consumption (or lung) in its earlier stages; and the most stubborn skin and scalp diseases are completely cured by it.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise.—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the liver and kidneys, will remove pimples, boils, salt rheum and other affections caused by impure blood.—Will drive malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all malaria fevers.—For cure of headache, constipation and indigestion try Electric Bitters—entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle at W. S. Lloyd's druggists.

Bridget Told How She Did It.

An Irish girl, who was servant to a lady, was complimented by her before company on the elaborate ornamentation of a large pile at dinner. "Why, Bridget, you are quite an artist. How did you manage to do this so beautifully?" she inquired, thinking to rally her for the company's amusement. "Indeed it was meself that did it, mum," said Bridget with a malicious grin; "I put my mangle to it with your false layth, mum!"

The Bliss of Ignorance.

Nagger—Did you see the president about your appointment when you were in Washington? Noddleman—No, but I saw his secretary, and from what he told me I should say I was sure to win. Nagger—What did he say? Noddleman—He said that the president had remarked upon the occasion of my name being submitted, that I was "persona non grata." Nagger—What is that? Noddleman—Why it's latin, and means "no person greater!" Pretty high praise to come from the President eh?

Judge Peters' Reminiscences.

This extract is republished at the request of several, who, by some means, failed to preserve the issue of the Advocate in which it appeared. The commander then was De Courcier, and he had despatched of hold the place; exaggerated reports of Braddock's force had reached him, and he was consulting whether to stand fast or evacuate the post, when De Beaulieu, one of his young captains, offered to take a force and advance to meet the English and fight. To this the Commander assented. De Beaulieu marched promptly out with about ten or twelve hundred men, French and Indians, and the collision followed.

The young Frenchman bound forward in a gay hunting shirt and a silver gorget, and waved his cap, a signal for his followers to scatter behind the trees and rocks. At the signal the Indians disappeared to the right and left, leaving the French in the center, upon this force the English opened a quick fire, which killed about twelve men, among whom De Beaulieu, who fell cheering his troops to the conflict; but this apparent success of the English was short-lived, it was the only gleam of victory they had—this first quick fire.

It could not be called a battle; it was a frightful slaughter. At the second fire of the Indians, the English regulars huddled up like sheep in a narrow pass, from which they could not extricate themselves, surrounded at the merciless fire from the ravines, and not able to see their foe, they were seized with mortal panic, fired haphazard and had not even presence of mind to fly.

The English officers, who acted with great courage but not with discretion, would not let them take shelter behind trees or any protection that might be found, but in vain attempted to make them advance on the fort; but they seemed not to hear the word of command, or if they did they did not heed it. The terrific fire poured into their ranks by the Indians from behind the rocks paralyzed them. On right and left, from the tangled ravines, issued fatal volleys, and at almost every shot a Briton fell. The Virginia rangers having a better knowledge of the Indian mode of fighting than their allies, scattered and fought them from behind trees. These rangers by their skill and the use they made of the cannon, saved a remnant of the English from being cut off by the Indians. In spite of their fellows, who, incapable of defending themselves, were shot down where they stood. The officers and Americans did all that men could do, but it was all in vain. Washington had four bullet holes through his coat and two horses shot from under him. Braddock had three horses killed under him and two fatally wounded; he did all that a brave soldier could do, but he was struggling against what no commander can make head and tail against—the surprise and disclosure of his men by the deadly fire of a hidden and unapproachable enemy—his men finally broke ranks and ran over each other in their wild attempt to escape.

At last Braddock fell, a bullet passed through his right arm and into his breast, and would have fallen from his horse, but Capt. Stewart, of the Virginia Light Horse, caught him in his arms. In agony, he groaned aloud and begged to be left to die on the field. The English regulars were now in full flight, they threw away their guns, accoutrements, and even clothing and rushed into the river. Cannon, horse and infantry hastened away, and the Virginia rangers had to follow. The army had lost more than half their number by the deadly hidden shots of the enemy. The Virginians were now very decided, out of 86 officers twenty-six were killed and thirty-seven wounded. The enemy's loss was twenty-eight killed and two wounded.

All that saved the army was the cowardice of the savages. They stopped the fight and pursued to gather up the muskets and scarlet coats that covered the ground over, which alone saved the fugitives from the tomahawk as they rushed over the Monongahela. Braddock was borne from the field by his friends, who hastened to a place of safety with him, and his brave English officers and the Virginians were all that remained with him. According to tradition, he was placed in a large silk sash, the ends were affixed to saddles on two horses moving abreast, and in this way the dying officer was started back towards Virginia, where he was never to reach. The army had vanished and only the remnants of the English officers and the provincials remained with poor Braddock. In these last hours he saw all his errors, and said to him, he had done them great injustice, that they were true soldiers and had acquitted themselves nobly. To Washington he made apologies, expressed great esteem for him, and as proof he gave to Gen. Washington his servant, Bishop, and his favorite saddle horse.

As he went through the shades of death he kept groaning and muttering: "Who would have thought it! Who would have thought it! But we will know better how to deal with them another time." As he drew near the Great Meadows his strength failed him, he could go no further, and four days after the battle (July 13, 1755) he died in the wilderness. His grave was dug near Fort Necessity; as there was no chaplain there Washington read the funeral service; the spot was carefully concealed to prevent its discovery by the Indians, without first giving even a salute over the soldier's grave. The remnant of the army continued their way to Cumberland, and arrived there safely.

Immediately after the battle Gen. Washington started Capt. John Ashby, an express, with dispatches to Lord Fairfax, at Greenway Court, his residence, a few miles from Winchester, Va., to be expressed by Fairfax to Lord Dunmore, at Williamsburg, the Governor of Virginia, which he delivered in 13 hours after leaving Lord Fairfax traveling 120 miles in 13 hours.

IN TROUBLE.

A special from Lexington says: "A sensation of no small proportions has developed here, in which the Captain of the night police force and one of his men and a beautiful and dashing young widow are the star actors. About eight months ago Mrs. Belle Laughlin came here from Mt. Sterling, after separating from her husband, J. B. Laughlin, now a butcher at Paris, Ky., and took up her abode on North Limestone street. Here she made the acquaintance of J. W. Smith, who was the officer on that beat, and in a short time Capt. J. H. Crane, of the night force, was also looking in the smiles of Mrs. Laughlin. All went well until a short time ago, when the engagements of the actor for Mrs. Laughlin's attentions clashed, and it is said that there were some hot words and even threats passed between the two men. A complaint against Smith to Chief Lusk followed, and now comes a petition got up by Smith and signed by a score of the members, including the Chief, for the removal of Crane."

The story of Deborah Sampson, who served as a private in the Revolutionary Army, is told by the Canton (Mass.) Journal. Deborah Sampson was born in Plymouth, Mass., in 1768. When the story of Concord and Lexington fired the popular heroic woman as well as men were busy discussing patriotic enterprises. Deborah looked in Plymouth and went to Medway, Mass., where she attired herself as a man, and was duly enlisted under the name of Robert Shurtliff. She appeared like a handsome young man, but her skill with the needle caused her companions to name her "Molly," though none of them suspected her sex. Robert Shurtliff took part in the siege of Yorktown, and was wounded twice, once by a cut in the hand, and again by a bullet through the shoulder. Robert Shurtliff received an honorable discharge. This was afterwards lost. After the war Deborah Sampson resumed female attire and married Benjamin Gannett, a Massachusetts farmer. In 1792 she petitioned the Massachusetts Legislature for a pension, which was granted in consideration of her services in the war. Mr. Gannett had three children, and her descendants are still living.

The fall of the year is a trying season for elderly people. The many cheerless, dark, dismal days act depressingly, not to say injuriously, on both old and young. Now is the time to re-inforce the vital energies with Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all medicines.

"MOTHER HUBBARD."

The police department of Toledo, Ohio, have made an arrest which lifts the scales from a devoted husband's eyes. Word was received at Cleveland the other day from Toledo that Mrs. Arthur Young, of the former city, was held there on the charge of stealing a pocketbook containing $187, a prominent military store in that city. Her husband hastened to her assistance and to him she denied her guilt, claiming that it was another woman whom she accompanied to the store, who committed the theft. Her husband believed her and engaged an attorney to defend his wife.

Later in the day, however his hopes were shattered. His wife's room was searched and the pocket book containing $187 was found concealed beneath the carpet. Mrs. Young turned out to be no less a personage than the notorious "Mother Hubbard," whose sneak thieving propensities are known to the police throughout the country. Her picture adorns the rogues' gallery in many of the large cities.

For years she lived a dual life. While at her home in Cleveland she appeared to her acquaintances to be the soul of honor, and she was much respected. Mr. and Mrs. Young have lived in Cleveland for several years. They have enjoyed the highest esteem of all who knew them, and it is believed that Mr. Young was completely ignorant of his wife's real character.

A Week of Well Doing.

Sunday School Teacher—I told you last Sunday that I wished each one of you would try to make at least one person happy during the week. Did you?

Boy—Yes, I made grandma happy.

"That is noble. How did you do it?"

"I went to visit her, and she's always happy when she sees I've got a good appetite."

A Farmer Philosopher's Opinion.

A city girl writes: "It is a fond dream of mine to become a farmer's wife and meander with him down life's flowery pathway." Ah, yes, that is a nice thing to dream about, but when you have lived on the farm and followed this meandering business for a month or so, you will discover a wide chasm between the dream and the reality. You will think of this about the time your husband meanders out and leaves you without wood, and you have to mend up and down the lane pulling splinters off the fence with which to cook dinner. And when you meander around in the wet clover in search of the cows, you find there is a dim perception that fond dreams do not always pan out a hundred cents to the dollar, and that there are several wonderings in farm life that are not listed in the dreaming category. The meandering business on the farm is not what it's cracked up to be.

He Was Encouraged.

The men who prosper in their world are the men who mind their own business, and keep on minding it. An exchange furnishes an example: "Tatoes!" cried a colored peddler in Richmond. "Hush dat racket! You distract de whole neighborhood!" responded a colored woman from a doorway. "You kin hear me, kin you?" "Hear you? I kin hear you a mile!" "Thanks! I see hollerin' to be heard!" "Tatoes!"

THE ADVOCATE.

ADVOCATE PUBLISHING COMPANY.

TUESDAY, NOV. 21, 1893.

"The McKinley Presidential boom is now at its zenith. When it comes to spreading the advocate of high tariff over the entire country he will flatten out considerably. This was clearly demonstrated in 1890 and 1892."

This is something like the editor of the Gazette. "He was at his zenith when he said the Force Bill is a wise and patriotic measure," but when his attention was called to his own sentiments, and he began to see himself as others saw him, he flattened.

The Republican press is swearing itself hoarse in an attempt to impose upon the people, the story that President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham had instructed Minister Willis to use the whole naval force of the United States in those waters to replace Queen Liliuokalani on the throne of Hawaii. Not satisfied with having done all that is possible to spread the lie, even after it was officially denied, since the later news from Honolulu has been received, they now attempt to say that Mr. Willis has simply held his instructions; that he did sail with such orders, but when he reached his post that they would not do to execute, etc., etc. Trying would kill what a harvest the undertakers would have among the Republican editors.

The Republicans keep up a mighty crowing over the late election. They think or affect to think that because the late election went their way in an "off year," therefore, the earth and the fulness thereof is theirs. The people may grow restive sometimes and make a kick against anything in sight, but when a second thought comes in they will remember a few things about Republican rule enumerated by the New York World as follows:

"A worse-than-war tariff after thirty years of peace."
 "A Treasury surplus of $60,000,000 converted into a deficiency."
 "An annual surplus revenue of $100,000,000 converted into an impending deficit of $50,000,000."
 "An impaired gold reserve resulting from the loss by the Harrison Administration of nearly $100,000,000 in the Treasury store."

"A silver-purchase law which had brought the country to the verge of a monetary panic, which shortly materialized."

"The bulwarking of trusts, the bullying of weak foreign powers, the prostitution of the civil service and the menace of a Force Bill."

It is hardly likely that the people are ready to go back to these things and more, that the Republican party has heaped upon a long-suffering country. They have declared for a Tariff for Revenue only and for an honest and economical administration of affairs and next November and three years hence, will show they have not changed their minds.

Collector's Office.

Mr. Robert Blaine, Maj. Shelby's Chief Deputy, is rushing along the boys' papers, and preparing to put in the appointees. We are afraid they will have more appointees than vacancies.—Lexington Gazette.

We never heard before that Mr. Blaine, Maj. Shelby's Republican Chief Deputy, was seriously disturbing himself about "the (democratic) boys' papers." Up the way it has been understood Mr. Blaine would do as little "making" as possible.

The work that has been done among the Indians by the Friends of the Baltimore Yearly Meeting and other similar bodies, has been attended with excellent results, and has been, as a rule, properly appreciated by the United States government. The Friends have insisted that by education, industry and agricultural training the Indians could be brought to a higher state of civilization than could ever be done by making them life-long pensioners on the bounty of the national government. These theories the Friend have sought to put in practice, and the results they have attained have encouraged them to continue their labors, sometimes in the face of powerful and persistent opposition. The Indians owe to the Friends a great debt of gratitude. The longer the work continues the better it is appreciated.—Baltimore American.

VOORHEES
Predicts Speedy Action on the Tariff.

"Senator Voorhees, who is at home in Terre Haute, for two weeks between sessions of Congress, said to a United Press reporter that he expected the House would send the tariff bill to the Senate before the holidays. The bill is now being prepared, and he is confident the measures will not be delayed in the House. It will be referred to the committee on finance, of which he is chairman."

When asked if "affected interests would be given a hearing by the committee, Mr. Voorhees said that ample opportunity would be afforded to all. There would be no effort to rush the measure needlessly. Undoubtedly there would be final action on the measure at this session. It was imperative that there would be no unnecessary delay."

It seems that the present Administration proposes to completely go back on the action of the Harrison Administration in the Hawaiian matter. Not satisfied with refusing to accept the proposed annexation or protectorate of Hawaii, now Secretary of State Gresham sends to President Cleveland a report condemning, in strong terms, the part our people took in the revolution. It is understood that our Minister, Mr. Willis, will present his credentials to the deposed Queen Liliuokalani, thus recognizing her as the legal ruling authority. Ex-Minister Stevens is out in a letter, in which he severely arraigns Gresham and charges that "a public crime of startling import is about to be committed under the authority of the American Government." He also attributes Gresham's attitude to his hostility to ex-President Harrison and ex-Secretary J. G. Blaine.

Eggs in Winter.

The whole basis of winter laying may be summed up as follows:

Supply the hens in winter with what they can pick up during the summer months. A hen at large supplies herself with grit, in the shape of hard, dry substances. It must be remembered that grit is the hen's teeth, and is used in the gizzard for grinding up the food. She picks up insect life in every shape, and eats a large quantity of green stuff. She keeps herself free from vermin by dusting in the dry earth. She eats the grain that may be thrown to her and is off again in busy search. She is in a state of constant activity, supplying herself with all the essentials necessary to make the eggs, which she deposits in greater number than when leading a state of artificial existence, as she has to do for many months of our year.—Milliana Farmer.

John Richardson, S. M. C., sold Monday under execution the following property:

House and lot on Willow street, property of Wm. Mitchell, to Columbia Finance and Trust Co., for $500, which was appraised at $900.

Sixty acres of land on Plum Lake property of L. S. Crouch, to George Bramblett, for $2,100.

The recent arrest of Zink, the peddler of obscene photographs in Louisville established the fact that one of the vilest sources of pollution to the morals of the young in the country are declared to be in possession of facts that will convict the scoundrel who made the photographs.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitche's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

Dr. G. C. Cascoe, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quick nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other harmful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Knickerbocker, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Hood's and Only Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Pileswort, Juniper berries and other well known remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla creative powers not possessed by other medicines. In effects it is remarkable where other preparations fail.

Court Day.

There was a large crowd in town yesterday. Merchants report only a fair amount of business done, and the trade of a generally unsatisfactory nature. The buyers were disposed to dicker and quibble over very little matters.

There was a large amount of stock on the market. About 1,000 cattle in the pens, most of which were sold. Common grades sold as low as 11 to 12 cents. Mediums from 20 to 22 cents. Feeders from 23 to 24 cents.

D. B. Lacy, of Morgan, had 55 head of feeders on the market, which he sold from 21 to 24 cents.

There were any number of horses on the market with but little sale for them. Common plugs went at their own price. John McDonald sold one dnn harness gelding to Beard, of Lexington, for $175.

The mule market was almost as unsatisfactory; many on the market, but few sold. They brought from $50 to $120. Andy English bought seven good, fat work mules at an average of $100. Beard, of Lexington, bought several at from $75 to $100.

A lot of good jack and jennets sold at Sheriff's sale for ridiculously low figures.

It took 10,417 bushels of wheat to pay Abraham Lincoln his annual salary as President of the United States. This took 801 acres of land worth $10 per acre, or $8,020 worth of land. This required sixteen hands to cultivate it. It took 76,923 bushels, more than seven times that much to pay the President's salary, as the results of the Harrison and other previous Republican administrations. This requires 5,917 acres of land worth $30 per acre, or $177,510 worth of land, and 118 hands and teams, that is, provided they tilled and harvested fifty acres to the hand. How is this for Republican work.

RELIGIOUS.

Rev. Robert Hiner conducted the prayer meeting at the Methodist church last Wednesday evening. He received a cordial welcome.

Quarterly meeting at the Methodist church next Saturday and Sunday, to be conducted by presiding elder, Rev. Joseph Rand, of Lexington.

Elder W. T. Tins preached an excellent sermon to an appreciative audience at the Methodist church last Sunday.

Died, on Tuesday, November 14, 1893, at the residence of William Mitchell on Main street, Mrs. Marcia C. Ashby, aged 87. For some four years Mrs. Ashby has been an invalid, as the result of a broken hip and the infirmities incident to old age. But patiently and uncomplainingly she bore her heavy cross. Nightly she would implore the Lord she loved—if it was His will—that she might find in the slumber that should visit her that sleep knows no waking this side the pearly gates of the beyond. The father of all in whom she so implicitly trusted did not forget to hear the prayer of his handmaiden. So on Monday night, when she gently sank into a peaceful slumber that seemed so restful and refreshing, and her watchers were glad to see her sleeping so peacefully, the call came for the soul to leave its earthly-worn tenement, and only God and the angels knew when she took her departure. The nurses went to her bedside a few moments later on, but death had been there before them. Mrs. Ashby, whose maiden name was Davall, had outlived all her near relatives, and was verily alone in the world. For more than twenty years she had made her home with the family of William Mitchell, and between them the strongest ties of friendship existed. God was good to her, indeed, in raising up such friends in the childless widowhood and old age. The beautiful tenderness displayed to her by every member of the family was cause for the deepest thankfulness to the grand old christian. Her life was quiet, peaceful and gentle, but its influence for good stretched much wider than many another more stormy one. Her pastor, Elder H. D. Clark, assisted by Elder B. W. Trimble, conducted the funeral service at the Christian church on Wednesday, after which her body was conveyed by loving friends to Lexington, and laid beside the ashes of the husband of her youth and those of her only child.

Died, last Saturday morning at his late residence, on Queen street, this city, of typhoid fever, Mr. S. C. Madden, in the 60th year of his age. He had been confined to his bed about two weeks. He was born in Mason county, and was a graduate of Centre College, Danville, Ky. He was married twice and by his first wife he had children, one of whom, Clement, survives him. His daughter, Mittie, having died last June. His second wife was Miss Ella Gault, of Bath county, and she and her son, Clarence, are left to mourn his loss. Mr. Madden had been a member of the Baptist church for 13 years, and was faithful in his attendance, both at the church meeting and Sunday-school. In the scriptures he was well versed and possessed a wide range of general information. For nine years past he had been engaged as a type in the office of the Sentinel-Democrat, Gazette and Advocate. He was attentive and industrious and never failed to do his part of any work assigned to him. His funeral service was conducted Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church by Rev. A. J. Arrick, assisted by Elder B. W. Trimble, and he was buried in Macphail cemetery. Peace to his ashes.
